CHARGE BEFORE THE COURT

Whether the accused Shekh Rabibul dishonestly abstracted electricity by directly tapping the licensee's pole through a two-core wire to charge e-rickshaws, the supply drawn without a meter, so as to attract Section 135(1)(a) of the Electricity Act, 2003; and whether, an unauthorised means of abstraction having been proved, Shekh Rabibul discharged the onus cast by the presumption in the third proviso to Section 135(1).

FACTS

On 13 June 2018, an enforcement team of Tata Power Delhi Distribution Ltd. headed by the enforcement team of TPDDL inspected the premises. The premises were found drawing supply by a direct tap from the licensee's pole through a two-core wire, used for charging e-rickshaws, without a functioning meter. The connected load was 5.2 KW. The proceedings were videographed with a Section 65B certificate, and an Inspection Report, Load Report and Seizure Memo (with an advisory notice) were prepared at the spot. Following the applicable tariff the company assessed a theft demand of Rs. 3,32,751/-, which went unpaid, and its Authorised Officer filed the complaint under Section 135 of the Act.

A notice under Section 251 Cr.P.C. was served and Shekh Rabibul pleaded not guilty. The inspecting officials and the Investigating Officer were examined and the electronic record proved. The accused claimed he was present only to charge an e-rickshaw and that he paid the charges to one "Deepak," not running the charging point himself. Under Section 313 Cr.P.C. the accused denied the substance of the allegations and led no defence evidence.

REASONING OF THE COURT

HEADNOTE

Directly tapping the licensee's network to draw an unmetered supply is theft under Section 135(1)(a); the accused being identified at the videographed inspection, and the routine objections — no public witness, market-available case property, alleged defects in sealing or investigation — being no answer (an irregularity in search or seizure does not vitiate the trial: N.M.T Joy Immaculate), the unrebutted third-proviso presumption convicts.

The direct tap was a clause (a) abstraction attracting the presumption. The Court set out the ingredients of Section 135(1), importing Section 24 IPC for “dishonestly,” and treated by directly tapping the licensee's pole through a two-core wire to charge e-rickshaws, the supply drawn without a meter as a clause (a) tapping of the licensee's pole. On proof of that artificial means the third proviso's presumption of dishonest use arose.

The accused was identified at the inspection and shown to be consuming. The Court rejected the “mere customer” plea: the accused was identified with the premises where the tap and the charging setup were found, and the inspection report, load report and certified videography established that the abstraction was being carried on at his jhuggi — an unnamed “Deepak” to whom charges were allegedly paid being neither produced nor supported by any evidence.

The objections to the investigation did not vitiate the case. The Court rejected the defence that the case property was freely available in the market, that the seizure/sealing was defective or that no duty roster was proved: on State v. N.M.T Joy Immaculate, 2004 (5) SCC 729, an irregularity or illegality in the search, seizure or investigation does not by itself vitiate the trial or render the recovered material inadmissible, absent resulting prejudice.

The absence of a public witness did not weaken the prosecution. No animosity of the officials was shown, and the site being in a thickly populated area where the public declined to join, on Punjab State Electricity Board v. Ashwani Kumar, 2010 (7) SCC 569, the official inspection report carries a presumption of regularity, and on Sushil Sharma v. BSES Rajdhani Power Ltd. non-examination of an independent witness is no infirmity.

The presumption was compulsory and, unrebutted, convicted. Following Neeraj Dutt (compulsory “shall presume”) and Hiten P. Dalal (prudent-man standard), the Court held that Shekh Rabibul, having led no defence evidence and produced no paid bills (Mukesh Rastogi; Section 106 onus), failed to rebut the presumption and was guilty under Section 135.

INTERPRETATION OF THE ELECTRICITY STATUTES

ELECTRICITY ACT, 2003

Section 135(1)(a) — Theft of Electricity

The Court treated clause (a) — tapping or making a connection with a licensee's overhead, underground or service lines/wires — as the operative limb, the case being one of direct hooking rather than meter tampering (clauses (b)–(e) having no factual foundation). As the Act does not define “dishonestly,” the Court imported Section 24 IPC and treated by directly tapping the licensee's pole through a two-core wire to charge e-rickshaws, the supply drawn without a meter as satisfying the requirement of dishonest intention.

Third Proviso to Section 135(1) — Presumption of Dishonest Use

Read as a reverse-onus clause: proof of an artificial or unauthorised means of abstraction raises a presumption of dishonest use “until the contrary is proved.” Reading it with the “shall presume” jurisprudence (Neeraj Dutt) and the rebuttal standard (Hiten P. Dalal), the Court held that the burden shifted to the accused to make innocence reasonably probable — a bare denial, without evidence of a lawful source or paid bills, could not discharge it.

HELD

The prosecution proved beyond reasonable doubt that Shekh Rabibul abstracted electricity by directly tapping the licensee's pole through a two-core wire to charge e-rickshaws, the supply drawn without a meter, an offence punishable under Section 135 of the Electricity Act, 2003, and led no evidence to rebut the statutory presumption. Shekh Rabibul is accordingly convicted under Section 135 of the Electricity Act, 2003, and is to be heard on the quantum of sentence.

SIGNIFICANCE

A direct-theft conviction on a hooked connection, the routine investigative objections rejected. Five propositions stand out:

- Directly tapping the network is theft under clause (a). A hooked or tapped connection drawing unmetered supply from the licensee's pole, mains or feeder pillar is a direct, artificial abstraction — no meter tampering need be shown.
- Identification at the videographed inspection fixes the accused. Presence in the photographs/video, undisputed signatures on the inspection report and appliances in use place the abstraction on the accused; a disconnected earlier connection makes the continued consumption dishonest.
- An irregular search or seizure does not vitiate the trial. Market-available case property, imperfect sealing or a missing duty roster go only to weight, not admissibility (N.M.T Joy Immaculate); absent prejudice the Court acts on the evidence.
- The 'I only paid a third party' e-rickshaw plea fails without proof. A bare claim of paying charges to an unnamed operator does not displace the accused's identification with the premises where the tap and charging point were found.
- A public witness is not essential in a populated locality. Where the public decline to join in a crowded area, the officials' consistent testimony and the presumption of regularity suffice (Ashwani Kumar; Sushil Sharma).
- The reverse-onus presumption convicts the silent accused. No paid bills and no defence evidence leave the compulsory presumption unrebutted (Neeraj Dutt; Hiten P. Dalal; Mukesh Rastogi; Section 106).
