HEADNOTE

On a civil contempt application alleging non-compliance with a writ direction that Purvanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Ltd. decide the mill's Clause 6.5 billing objections within seven days, the High Court did not punish contempt. It granted the Executive Engineer two further weeks from production of a certified copy to comply, and disposed of the application with liberty to move afresh if the objections remained undecided.

HOLDING

Where a prior writ had directed the licensee to decide the consumer's Clause 6.5 objections to electricity bills within the stipulated seven days, the contempt court, without recording wilful disobedience, afforded the opposite parties one further opportunity to comply within two weeks of production of a certified copy of the contempt order, and disposed of the application at that stage with liberty to the applicant to move a fresh application if the writ direction was still not complied with. ¶ 4-5
